This week I went with my class and the third grade class to Pizza Hut for a pizza party. We were celebrating 100% participation in the Book It program.

Please continue on the next page.

Briefly share one positive experience from this week

I helped one of the boys in my class become excited about reading a word. He was just looking at pictures in a book, and I encouraged him to try and read it. He said, "There are too many words!" I told him that there was a "Star Wars word" on that page, and he couldn't wait to try and read it (he is obsessed with Star Wars). So I helped him read the word "force", and we heard all day long about how he can read Star Wars words.

Briefly share one problem or negative experience. Do you want assistance in dealing with this?

It is getting harder and harder to keep the kids excited about school. They are ready for summer, and you can tell it was really hard to come back after the week off.

Do you have any other comments, questions or needs?

Just to let you know, I didn't end up going to the conference in Kansas with the DCE program, so I didn't miss Friday.
I am also working out a time for Mrs. Strong to come and observe me. That should happen sometime this week.
I pray that you are recovering quickly from your surgery! God bless!
