

ENG 530 (Linguistics for Educators)

Big Deal eBook Assignment

Students will review at least two resources presented in The Big Deal eBook. Think about how these resources would support English learners and the theories we have discussed in our course. Write a review of the websites and share how they could be used and why they are valuable resources.

The Big Deal eBook is a 21st Century Skills Resource that addresses the four C's of communication, collaboration, critical thinking, and creativity. Evaluate two resources in the eBook that support a linguistic element. Describe the resources-provide specific details, identify which "C" they are listed under, and explain the linguistic application. How could you use these resources to promote language learning? Share ideas to help other teachers recognize the importance of these resource

The rubric and sample candidate papers are attached as separate files

Academic Article Review and Application Assignment

Find an article about English learners dealing with any aspect of linguistics. You may want to research any of the topics we have discussed and/or read about, or you may explore another topic related to linguistics and English learners. Read the article, write a summary including the title, author, and key concepts, add personal application/reflection, and prepare a discussion question for the group. Also provide a citation for your article. Articles may be found using Concordia's online library. Articles should be recent (after 2009), and relevant to the research we have read throughout this course. I have provided a link to the Concordia Online Resource Center in web links. I will also provide a link to a resource about citations, OWL at Purdue. You may use APA or MLA for your citation.

The rubric and sample candidate papers are attached as separate files.