February 21, 2013

Which of the following do you include when you calculate for Rule 20 compliance (24 undergraduate, 18 graduate, or 21 undergrad/graduate combination) per academic year (i.e. two main semesters)? Said another way, which of these components are included when you present information that the load of a faculty member is within the credit hour limitation in Rule 20? CHECK ALL THAT APPLY:					If ADVISING is NOT checked above, does this mean - For Professional Education Faculty, have advising responsibilities but is not included in load calculation.	If ADMINISTRATIVE RESPONSIBILITIES is NOT checked responsibility could be assigned above the equivalent of the Rule 20 load limitations?	Does your institution include all other faculty who teach 'one or more courses in education' in the Rule 20 load limitation? (NACTE Definition)	Are other institution faculty who do NOT teach one or more courses in education allowed or expected to exceed the 24/18/21 hour Rule 20 limitations? (NCATE Definition)

Yes	Yes			Advising is not assigned load weight and we have considered administrative responsibilities as part of it, but not the thing that would put a person over the 18 or 24 hour limit. And in clarification of the response below on faculty who teach one or more courses ... we try our best to get them into the 24 hour limit, but that's very hard when most of their Arts and Sciences colleagues are teaching overloads and getting paid.
